

WINTER SCAVENGER HUNT

While walking in the Parkland, see if you can spot the following:

An icicle...

A rock big enough to stand on...

Animal tracks...

A frozen puddle...

A tree without leaves...

A nibbled pinecone...

An icy spider web...

A frosty leaf...

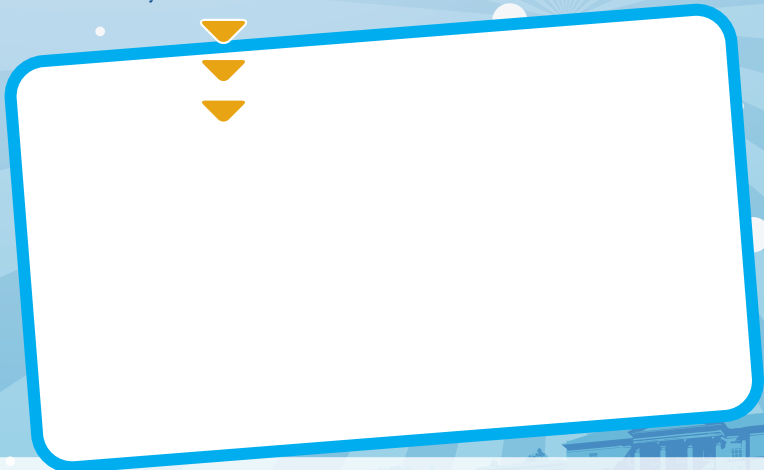

A winter flower...

Berries on a branch...

In winter the Parkland transforms into a natural wonderland. Enjoy frosty mornings and glorious afternoon sunsets as you explore hidden nooks and crannies laid bare now that the trees have lost their leaves!

Winter is the best time to spot animal footprints in the mud and snow. Practice your wildlife tracking skills and draw any hoof, paw or footprints that you spot inside the box. Can you guess what animal they are from?

Watch out for birds flocking together in spectacular numbers during the colder months. If you head over to the meres you will see lots of ducks (wildfowl), some of which are with us just for the winter. There will also be geese and maybe a heron or two looking for fish around the edges of the water.

Can you spot any of these winter birds in the Parkland and unscramble their names?
